RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

National Elections Database 🔗 , Electoral Turnovers 🔗 and Incumbency Advantage - Principal Investigators: Benjamin Marx, Vincent Pons, and Vincent Rollet Research Assistant - Short description: RDDs using over 6,000 national elections to estimate the effect of electoral turnovers at the country level and assess the incumbency advantage worldwide. - I contributed to the National Elections Database by conducting data cleaning, organization and collection from multiple sources (V-Dem, IFES, IPU, etc.), with an emphasis on parliamentary elections. I also performed numerous audits to assess data quality using Stata.	July 2024 –
Promoting Exports 🔗 - Principal Investigators: Cecilia Carvalho, Nicolas Depetris Chauvin, Paulo Mencaci, Emanuel Ornelas, Cristine Pinto, João Paulo Pessoa, and Vladimir Ponczek Research Assistant - Short description: randomized controlled trial (RCT) with Brazilian firms where the intervention was offering access to export training online courses. - I supported the implementation of the RCT by developing educational materials and collaborating with the fieldwork team to coordinate course delivery. I also conducted preliminary data analysis to assess program impact using R.	Oct 2021 – Jan 2023
Rooting for the Same Team: Shared Social Identities in a Polarized Context 🔗 - Principal Investigators: Nicolás Ajzenman, Pedro C. Sant’Anna, and Bruno Ferman Research Assistant - Short description: field experiment with 4,620 unique Twitter users conducted over six months during the 2022 Brazilian elections to investigate if shared social identities help overcome online political divides. - I assisted in the implementation of the experiment by weekly creating Twitter fictional accounts and collecting data on interactions with other users (follow-backs and blocks).	June 2022 – Dec 2022
Tá On Project - Principal Investigators: Michela Carlana, Raissa Fabregas, and Diana Moreira Research Assistant - Short description: RCT with Brazilian economically disadvantaged female students where the intervention was offering online tutoring sessions with college students to foster interest in STEM. - I assisted in the design of the RCT by contributing to the development of the study protocol and developing instructional materials used by tutors.	Sep 2022 – Dec 2022

Research Assistant

- Short description: evidence-based impact evaluation of the Energy Efficiency Program, using data from over 8,200 low-income households and more than 1,400 projects, in partnership with ANEEL, a federal regulatory agency under the Ministry of Mines and Energy of Brazil, and Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ).
- I conducted data cleaning, organization and collection from project reports.
